Is Progressive Movement Not A Class Organization

The Chauvin District U.F.A. met at Chauvin, Saturday afternoon. Representatives from Butze, Rosos, S. Jean and Edgington were present, and J. Crockett, president with P. H. Perry, secretary.

The matter of telephone service to the Chauvin depot was further discussed and it was decided to further seek the co-operation of the Central U.F.A. in this matter.

Several matters of current interest were discussed, and the opinion that the association was a progressive institution rather than a class organization was expressed by the delegates present. It was recommended that in the event of friction because of political differences that the political work be strictly confined to the political association. It was recommended that delegates bring this recommendation to their locals.

It was decided to hold the next meeting Saturday December 3rd. In the opinion of the delegates present it is highly desirable that the work of the district association should continue to be carried on, but it was, likewise, desirable that a greater interest in the more cooperative work be shown by the various locals. Further discussions on the various phases of this question are expected at the next meeting.

The annual meeting will be held on Saturday, December 17th.

Homemade Costumes Predominate At Masquerade Ball

Armistice Day was observed publicly in Chauvin in the form of a Masquerade Ball held under the auspices of the Chauvin G. W. V. A., in the Oddfellows Hall.

Many and varied were the charming costumes worn by both ladies and gentlemen present. This year, it was to be noticed, there was almost entire absence of hired costumes, and we may add, the cost of the ball itself not at all for this. On the other hand the enjoyment of the evening was much greater from this very reason. In the space at our disposal we cannot do justice to these costumes by describing them all, but it is needful to say that the task of the judges was a very difficult one. Mesdames H. N. Freedman, D. MacDonald and S. H. DaCosta acted as judges for the ladies costumes; whilst Messrs H. Black, C. Stewart and E. C. Gilliat were judges of the gents costumes. The following prizes were awarded:—

LADIES

1st: Mrs J. P. SUPPER, (squaw)

2nd: Mrs A. Irvine (poppies)

GENTS

1st: J. Murray (Little Boy Blue)

1st Original: C. Smith

1st Comic: R. J. Sharpe

A very pleasant night was spent by all present, and we trust that the Chauvin G. W. V. A. will find a sufficient balance, after expenses are paid, to met some of the cost of their district.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Beattie have taken up residence at the telephone office.

New National Policy

Enthusiastic Meeting At Chauvin School

The schoolhouse of Chauvin was packed to the doors last Tuesday afternoon when the opening of N.N.P.A. campaign took place. The same enthusiasm was displayed throughout the town of the Battlefield constituency to be made by Mr. T. H. McConica, the result of at least, this election is a foregone conclusion. This meeting was he first of many, and the nominee is accompanied by Mr. C. Bingham, M.L.A., Mr. C. C. Stolker (Secretary of the Battlefield Constituency). The meeting was started prompt on time and the chair was taken by Mr. K. W. Coe. The first speaker was Mr. Stolker, who gave a resume of the origin of the New National Policy. He traced the movement from its inception to the present time and held his audience from first to last. He was succeeded

By Bingham whose splendid address was followed with great interest by an attentive crowd. It was Mr. McConica, however who put the finishing touch to a most enjoyable and instructive afternoon. In his criticisms of the two old parties Mr. McConica made some wonderful points. He left no doubt in the mind of anyone present as to his attitude toward the re-establishment of the Wheat Board. His trouncing of the policy of Mr. MacKenzie King was only surpassed by the ringing rebukes, and the bitter denunciation of the pie-crust promises of the Hon. Arthur Meighen. This calm cool reassurance of the troubles of his western farmer gripped his audience with an intensity that any arguments put forward by his opponents cannot shake. The question of western "loyalty," according to Mr. Meighen's standard, received its just reward when Mr. McConica gave it the lie direct. His closing remarks asking his audience to support him in the forthcoming election, were greeted with loud applause. A vote of thanks was given by Mr. Jas Gordon was given with cheers for the candidate. The New National Policy, represented by Mr. McConica was given a splendid send off by the people of this district.

Crowds Assemble To See Exhibits

The exhibition held in the Hudson Bay store in Edmonton, of fine art work which has won prizes at the local fairs, was a great success. The ample window space of this store was heavily taxed and the exhibits were viewed by crowds that impeded progress along the sidewalks, so great did the interest prove.

The whole province was represented, each town being given due individual window space for its collection.

The Chauvin exhibits have been returned safely, and the organizers express their thanks for the co-operation of the workers in this district.

HOW CANADA IS GOVERNED

DOMINION FRANCHISE OR VOTERS' QUALIFICATIONS

Previous to 1885, the franchise for the several provincial legislatures was the franchise for the house of commons, but in that year, after a very protracted debate, an electoral franchise act was passed by parliament for the whole Dominion.

The franchise was somewhat complicated in its details and very expensive in its machinery, and was abolished in 1885 by the Laurier Liberal Government, which again adopted the provincial franchises for the purposes of dominion elections, with the exception of what is now the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta and the Yukon.

Under the present law manhood suffrage qualified by residence and British citizenship, and subject to certain laws as to registration, practically exists in all the provinces. Quebec, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island require a small property, or income qualification, but so small, as to practically to exclude no one. The judges returning officers at elections and election clerks are, however, disfranchised in the public interest to keep them free from political partisanship.

In Ontario, Manitoba, British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan women have been given the right to vote on the same terms as men, and in the course of a few years this extension of the franchise will doubtless be universal throughout Canada.

In 1917 the Dominion parliament passed an Election Act which is to continue in force during the war, under which women, being British subjects and having the qualifications as to age, race, and residence required for male voters, who are the wives, widows, mothers, sisters, and daughters of any person, male or female, living or dead, who is serving or has served without Canada in any of the military forces, or within or without Canada in any of the naval forces of Canada or Great Britain during the war are to have the right to vote.

The female relatives of those who have left any of the forces disbarred are excepted from the privilege and the privilege does not extend to relatives of members of the naval forces engaged within Canada who entered the service after the date of the act, i.e., 20th September 1917.

A statute was also passed in 1917 providing for the taking of the votes of British subjects, male or female, of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, the Royal Canadian Navy, the Canadian Militia on active service, the Royal Canadian Volunteer Reserve, and of British subjects who, while within Canada, entered the British Royal Flying Corps, Royal Naval Air Service, Auxiliary Motor Boat Patrol Service, or, being ordinarily resident in Canada, are on active service in Europe in the naval or military forces of the King or any of the King's allies.

Such an elector is to have a vote in the electoral district in which he or she last continually resided during the last four months of the twelve

Armistice Day Is Observed By A Church Parade

Fifty-seven men of the 19th Alberta Dragoons attended the church parade at Chauvin, Sunday afternoon, November 13th. Major Strachan, V.C. in command, with Lt. J. A. MacKenzie as officer of the day, Sgt-Mjr K. W. Coe, N.C.O. in charge and Orderly Sgt G. M. Beattie.

The squadron fell in at the G. W. V. A. hall in drill order, and marched to the Oddfellows Hall, in which divine service was held. The hall was filled to capacity, the sets on the left being occupied by the Dragoons and the remaining space being taxed to accommodate the public, of whom there was a large number present.

The platform was occupied by Capt. K. C. MacLeod, Rev. Huet and Rev. Miller. Capt. MacLeod, who officiated, had kindly come down from Edmonton in response to the invitation of the squadron. He was an overseas padre, seeing service in France with the 85th Battalion. His visit was of special interest because he was able to renew acquaintances with quite a number of the boys.

In the course of his address, he commended Chauvin on being successful in raising more men for the 19th, than they had found it possible to do Edmonton during the past year. Soldering, he said, did not make a man keep up the life of his fellow man. It made him a manly man who had been through the Great War had by their experience become more full of sympathy, they had learned the worth of honor, and they sought to be true and were anxious to be of service to their country. Speaking of those who laid down their lives in the Great War, he said, the soldier has no tears for himself in his death, he fears not death, his tears were only for those he left behind, mothers, sisters, wife and children. They sacrificed in our interests, and we should prove ourselves worthy of them by making our homes and our country so worthy that a man would willing fight for them, and that our children may be a credit to those who have passed.

He spoke of the past war as being the last to be waged under the old conditions. In the past men had met and fought face to face. In this war unseen messengers of death had smitten the soldier down. In the future wars scientific devices would feel death to thousands,—to combatants and non-combatants alike, to the women and children as well as the men. He urged his hearers to develop the true spirit of service to their country, by tackling the problems of peace in a disciplined, unselfish and manly manner as soldiers for their country's welfare.

Rev. Huet at the invitation of Capt. MacLeod spoke briefly, referring to his three years experience in the French army and expressing his admiration of the gallantry of the allied armies in the war and spoke of the equally important duties to one's country in times of peace.

Rev. Miller also expressed his appreciation of Capt. MacLeod's address and emphasized the remarks of the previous speakers.

Mr. Charles Kirby returned from Edmonton Saturday.

Capt. K. C. MacLeod Gives Startling Figures In His Sermon

2600 Children Now Being Cared For By Dept. FOR Neglected Children Home The True Training Centre

Capt. MacLeod preached at the Westminster Church last Sunday evening to a congregation that completely filled the building. Many of those present coming in from the country. His subject was a plea on behalf of our children. Speaking as official of the Alberta Dept for care of Neglected Children, he said that there were at present over 2600 of these unfortunate children under the care of this department. This includes many blind, deaf and dumb children who were being educated by the department of education. There are some 1100 children of widowed mothers under the care of his department. The department endeavoured always to keep the children at their own homes, or with foster parents, rather than placing them in institutions. Experience having demonstrated the value of home training.

The danger period in the life of the young to-day was between the ages of 12 and 16 years, being greatest at the centre of this period. The chief delinquency being theft, which constituted 95 per cent of the offences which they had to deal with.

He instanced the case of two boys who came from a wretched home and who were costing the province no less than $2300 per year to keep them in a proper place and give them a training. He emphasized strongly the necessity of good homes for the children and urged upon his hearers the duty of making good homes for their children. The work of the high school, the public school, the sunday school were all important, but they could not take the place of home training.

As the infant, in its instinctive desire to grow, seizes everything and endeavours to put it into its mouth; so the growing child, through eyes and ears, endeavours to collect information from all around it; and it copied what it saw—not knowing the right from wrong. It was the duty of parents to explain and teach the child the difference between right and wrong. In the past men had met and fought face to face. In this war unseen messengers of death had smitten the soldier down. In the future wars scientific devices would feel death to thousands,—to combatants and non-combatants alike, to the women and children as well as the men. He urged his hearers to develop the true spirit of service to their country, by tackling the problems of peace in a disciplined, unselfish and manly manner as soldiers for their country's welfare.

Rev. Huet at the invitation of Capt. MacLeod spoke briefly, referring to his three years experience in the French army and expressing his admiration of the gallantry of the allied armies in the war and spoke of the equally important duties to one's country in times of peace.

Rev. Miller also expressed his appreciation of Capt. MacLeod's address and emphasized the remarks of the previous speakers.

The prompt action of Mr. J. A. Code, last Sunday afternoon, saved the I. O. O. F. hall from being burned to the ground. Some hot ashes had set fire to the woodwork by the backdoor, a two inch plank being thrown before Code discovered it—BEWARE OF HOT ASHES.

months immediately preceding his enlistment, or if he cannot specify such a district, then in an electoral district within which he has at any other time resided, or if because of non-residence or otherwise he cannot specify such a district, then, within some electoral district as he may choose.

The returning officers in Canada send a return of the votes cast in their electoral district for that purpose. The number of votes cast by the soldiers and others are sent by cable to the general returning officer, and he, after adding up the total votes cast in Canada, and by the troops, declares who are elected.

Voting by ballot prevails throughout Canada in provincial as well as

House of Commons. The returning officer, in the provinces of Quebec where the returning officer fixes the day. Under the War Times Elections Act this exception is, however, done away with while the war lasts, except with respect to the Yukon.

When a general election has been decided on at a cabinet meeting, the premier so advises the governor-general and if the latter sees no constitutional objection, parliament is dissolved by a proclamation in the name of the king, who alone can summon.

Another proclamation authorizes the issue of the writs of election, or order to the returning officer in each constituency or district that elects a member, fixing the date of the nomination of candidates and the date

HOW ELECTIONS ARE HELD

General elections are held on the same day throughout the dominion; exception, however, is made in the case of such large, remote districts as Skeena, West Kootenay and Cariboo, in the province of British Columbia, and Gaspe. Chitoutimi and Saguenay, in the province of Quebec where the returning officer fixes the day. Under the War Times Elections Act this exception is, however, done away with while the war lasts, except with respect to the Yukon.

When a general election has been decided on at a cabinet meeting, the premier so advises the governor-general and if the latter sees no constitutional objection, parliament is dissolved by a proclamation in the name of the king, who alone can summon.

Another proclamation authorizes the issue of the writs of election, or order to the returning officer in each constituency or district that elects a member, fixing the date of the nomination of candidates and the date when the returning officers are to make their returns.

Any twenty-five electors may nominate a candidate for the house of commons by signing a paper in the form required by law, and depositing $300 with the returning officer, who returns the same to the candidate in case of his election or of his obtaining at least one-half of the votes polled in favor of the candidate elected, but otherwise the deposit goes into the public revenues. When there is no opposition to a candidate he is declared duly returned by the returning officer at the close of the time allowed for nominations.

In case of an election, it takes place, except in the remote and thinly settled districts mentioned above on the seventh day after nomination day, or on the following day when the seventh is Sunday or a statutory holiday. The places where the votes are taken are duly advertised under the law, and proper means taken to secure a full and correct poll. All votes are taken by ballot.

In each polling place, except in Prince Edward Island, there is a list of persons qualified to vote at the election, and when the name of a person presenting himself to vote is found therein, he receives a ballot paper from the deputy returning officer, on the back of which the latter has put his initials previously, so that they can be seen when the ballot is folded.

On the back of the counterfoil attached to each ballot there is placed a number corresponding with one placed opposite the voter's name in the poll book.

In Prince Edward Island there are voters lists. The population is small and rural, and therefore it is easy to identify the voters. During the war, however, lists are made for Prince Edward Island under the War Times elections Act.

The elector then proceeds alone into one of the compartments of the polling place. He can secretly mark his ballot paper. He makes a cross with his black lead pencil within the white space in the division containing the name of the candidate for whom he has decided to vote.

In case there are two members to be returned for the district—as in the case of the city of Ottawa, for instance—he makes a mark opposite each of the two names of his chosen candidates.

He then folds up the ballot paper so that the initials and stamp on the back, and number on counterfoil, can be seen without opening it.

He must hand the paper, so folded, to the returning officer, who examines the initials, stamp, and number on counterfoil, so that he may ascertain if it is the same paper he gave the elector. If it so be, he tears off and destroys the counterfoil, and places the ballot paper in the ballot box provided for that purpose, in the presence of the voter.

At the close of the poll or voting, the poll is open from 9 o'clock in the morning without interruption until 5 o'clock in the afternoon of election day, the deputy returning officer in each polling place opens the box, counts the ballots, and places his statement of the number of ballots paper and all papers in his possession relating to the election, in the ballot box, which he locks and seals and sends to the chief returning officer.

The latter opens all the boxes, and sums up the votes for each candidate as given in the statement of his deputies. He declared the candidate having the majority of votes duly elected; but in the case of an equality or tie of votes, he gives an additional or casting vote to decide the election.

Immediately after the sixth day after the final addition of votes of the respective candidates, unless before that time he receives notice that there is to be a recount of votes by a voter, he must transmit his return to the clerk of the crown in chancery at Ottawa.

The clerk of the crown thereupon publishes the names of the members elect in the Canada Gazette, the official paper of the Dominion.

J. A. MacKenzie, toastingmaster proposed a toast to The King, which was heartily responded to. A short programme of speeches, songs and recitations followed, in which C. Ryall, G. M. Beattie, K. W. Coe, W. Cobitt, A. E. Pitman, A. Clifford, H. Foxwell, L. D'Albertanssen, H. Black, C. Kirby, W. Ellis took part.

Look of space prevents us from giving the speeches in detail, but the united tenor of them was one of appreciation to the host, and a desire that a monthly meeting of similar nature during the winter months be arranged. Armistice day had been observed most appropriately by the three functions—ball Friday, church parade Sunday and this banquet. It was desirable to maintain the friendly spirit of competition between the two troops and to bear in mind at all times that the honor and credit of the regiment as an whole should be the object this competition should attain. References were made to the part our local boys had played in the real War and of the necessity of honoring the memory of their brave deeds by "Carrying on".

C. Ryall struck an appropriate chord of sentiment by his adapted poem:—

A mother's gift to her country's cause is a story yet untold.
She had three sons, her only ones, Each worth his weight in gold;
But she gave them up for the sake of war,

With a heart that is filled with pain,
As each went away, she was heard to say:
Hell ne'er return again.

One sleeps down at Ypres, '

Another sleeps at Vimy Ridge,
And both were suits of Khaki.

Mid the strains of Annie Laurie,
The Gordon pipers play
In a trench—along the Somme,
The third Canadian lay.

She's alone tonight, while the stars
shine bright,

With a heart that's filled with dismay
On that Great Day I'll hear her say:

My three boys will be there,
Perhaps on watch at the Heavenly Gates,

On guard beside the guns...

Then the mother, true to the red,
white and blue,
Will enter with her sons.

Refrain 'One sleeps down at Ypres,

Gates,

On guard beside the guns...

Then the mother, true to the red,
white and blue,
Will enter with her sons.

Refrain 'One sleeps down at Ypres,

Gates,

On guard beside the guns...

wardly and not by the old trick method of asking catch questions. For one thing Free Trade will tend to keep Canadian manufacturers from closing down their plants and throwing them out of work in order to keep up high prices by lack of production.

In the next paragraph he accuses Crear and presumably the 'National Progressives' of not wishing a Wheat Board, etc., etc., etc. This is so obviously incorrect that it is hardly worth comment.

Next he accuses Crear and his party of being backed by U. G. G. funds. This, we believe is utterly false, and would like to see him prove his statement. The origin of the campaign funds for the N. P. Party, has never been kept secret. The farmers are paying their own way and have nothing to hide, which is more than can be said for their opponents. I will pass by the other minor assertions for which no proof is offered, and tackle the latter portion of the article, when he has devoted tending to prove that a lawyer, and a lawyer only is the only person really qualified to set in Parliament! Ye Gods! what next?

In his attempt to do this he brings forward the old sophistry of, 'argument by analogy'; a schoolboys trick, for any debater knows that analogies are always more or less misleading, otherwise there were no need of them. He asks: if a farmer had a lawsuit pending, or a wife needing an operation; whether he would not call in a lawyer or a doctor as the case might be; rather than a fellow farmer or his wife. From what we have observed of some lawyers and their fees and also of some doctors, perhaps he would be just as well.

But that is not the point; let me answer the argument again by a counter question. If the writer is a farmer, and I presume he is; and had an agricultural problem confronting him, would he call on friend

District Court Is Held At Chauvin

A sitting of the district court was made in Chauvin, Thursday, 10 November in the Oddfellow hall.

Judge Taylor presided. Lawyers MacKenzie, Boyd, May and Fieldhouse were present on behalf of their clients. The hall being filled with witnesses and the public. There were also a number of ladies waiting to obtain certificates to enable them to vote at the coming election. Unfortunately, for the later, the court was too busy to attend to their request could not find time to give them the necessary attention, and they did not obtain the papers they were seeking.

The first case on the docket was that of Gifford vs Staley. This case centered on the non-payment by Staley of commission to Gifford for the sale of the South half of 27-42-3 to F. Reinhart. After hearing the evidence Judge Taylor reserved his judgment.

The second case was that of Ernst vs Beadle, of Seattle. Ernst claimed $90, being the balance due to him on 120 acres of plowing at $3.00 per acre on some land leased from the defendant from July 1920 to Dec. 1921. The owner had taken advantage of the clause in the lease permitting him to sell the land. Ernst had done the plowing in accordance with the terms of the lease with the figure at $3 per acre. The defendant had paid only $270 for the plowing and withheld the balance of $90, claiming certain damage done by Ernst. Judgment for the complainant Ernst and Beadle ordered to pay the $90.

The last case was that of the Crown vs. Buck. Buck was charged with wilfully wounding a cow, July 15th. The preliminary hearing was given at Chauvin shortly after the event. The principal witnesses for the crown were three members of the W. Carrill family and a constable, also Farrel. H. P. May, for the crown urged that a strong chain of circumstantial evidence had been presented but Judge Taylor dismissed the case.

Foreign born women who require certificates for voting can obtain them from the District Court Judges who will be sitting at Lloydminster November 19th and at Wainwright, December 1st. Communicate with the secretary of your U.F.A. local at once.

Veterans Dance At Brady School

The annual dance was attended by the usual success. This year the returned men of Artland and district were entertained by the Manitou Ladies Aid and friends, and a rest enjoyable time ensued. On entering each man was presented with a red poppy, made by the ladies of the Aid. Dancing was the order until midnight when a dainty lunch was handed round, as were cigars and fruit. Speaking on this matter Mr. Kendal W. Coe in thanking the ladies on behalf of the returned men, reminded all of the day they were celebrating, and that thus far Brady had always recognised this day as the returned men's day, and he hoped they would continue to do so. Mrs. Watson (President of the Ladies Aid) suitably responded. During the interval the coming election cropped up and a few remarks on the subject were contributed by Messrs. Geo. Lawson, Jas. W. Coe, K. W. Coe, and Alan Marshall. Dancing was then resumed and carried on until the early hours of the morning. Brady school has been the scene of many past triumphs in the art of enjoyable evenings, and this latest effort can be compared favorably with its best.

record time. So be there and enjoy the fun.
